

Change comes to all things, unbidden and often unwelcome. In her idyllic woodland home, a young girl finds enormous power at an unexpected age. As she comes to terms with ancient magic, her family unifies to protect her from an old foe. Visions of the past and future haunt her, threatening both her health and sanity. Her only hope is family, for each member must play the role they have inherited to save her. The magic she discovers destroys better than it creates. It withers those it touches. Neither dark nor light, it is unstable and abusive. Family enemies emerge from across time, fates entwined. The forest they steward produces savage creatures, strange and alien, and harbors ancient magic. Autumn has come, bringing death to those without the strength, will, or good fortune to survive.
